E. E. Brown Likely to Get the Only Salaried Office in the Sunflower League, After All-Ex-Congressman Botkin Is Delighted.

HUTCHINSON, KAS., Sept. 2.—(Special.)
The people of this town are very sore at the entire Democratic aggregation of Kansas. They charge the Democrats with working a "skin" game on them. When E. E. Brown came here some time ago to make arrangements for his love feast, which was pulled off yesterday, he announced that there would be about 1,000 Democrats in attendance. The people relied on his judgment and raised a fund of $100 to entertain the followers of Bryan.

"If the present anti-trust and combine law is not sufficient, it should be amended, and I will gladly help to make it as effective as possible. "I will introduce a bill to extend the pension laws to state militiamen; to increase all widows' pensions to $12 per month; to remove the limitation on the arrears act. "I expect to work for a more liberal construction of our present pension laws and if amendments are needed will do all I can to secure them.

Congressman-at-Large W. J. Bailey gives this as his proposed plan of work: "I shall give President McKinley's policy my hearty and enthusiastic support.

There were fewer than 100 strangers in town. The $700 was about $890 more than was necessary. After the decorations in the hall had been paid for, there was no necessity of spending any more. But the people of this community are very hospitable and had invested about all of the funds in an effort to show the 1,000 Democrats a good time. Three Kansas Congressmen Outline Their Programme for Serving Their Constituents.

TOPEKA, Sept. 1 - (Special.) The members of the Kansas congressional delegation are busily engaged now in mapping out their work for the coming session of congress. Most of the members will be in congress for the first time, but they hope to accomplish some good for their common country, the great West and for Kansas. In discussing the measures which he proposes to support, Congressman Charles Curits, of the First district, says:
"Personally, I intend to vote to sustain President McKinley's splendid administration as I have since the 4th of March, 1857." I shall work for an increase in the appropriation to extend the rural free delivery. I would like to see it fully inaugurated in this state, as I am satisfied it will be of great benefit to the farmers. "I expect to do all I can to secure appropriations for improvement at the various government institutions in this state.

do not believe it would be good politics to make a nomination just for the sake of filling the ticket, for to nominate a man who would not make an active campaign and give dignity to the two parties would certainly do us more harm than good. Therefore, if there is not an able and strong Democrat or Populist asking for the next house and will undoubtedly be selected as Russell's successor. This opinion is strengthened by the fact that he will have the good wishes, if nothing more, of the speaker-to-be. It was in Wisconsin that the Hopkins men in the sucakership that the Hopkins men in the speakership skirmish determined to make their first open stand. It was estimated that Hopkins would have a majority of the Wisconcongressman-at-large, and he was afraid Public Announcement Made of His sin delegation for speaker against Henderson. So confident of this were the Hopkins men that they called a meeting of the delegation at Milwaukee to determine its preference for speaker. With a majority on Wisconsin for being the first state to declare itself on the speakership, the Henderson men came out victorious and com-mitted the delegation as a unit to their favorite, soon after which, it will be re-membered. Hopkins withdrew. As this de-termined the purely sectional character of the contest, with Henderson representing the West and Sherman the East, the New York candidate not long after followed Hopkins' example and left the fleig undisputed to Henderson. It is needless to say that the far-reaching effect of Babcock's victory in this con-nection has given him a position in the house which it will be hard to assail. His
